"... Nice freshness and very vivid fruit notes (mostly red but also with some underlying black tones). It also shows some faint savory accents and a little whiff of leather, which make for an impressively complex wine for the money. To my taste, this is ready to enjoy already, and though most tasters will want it paired with something containing some dietary fat to buffer the tannins, I could sip it on its own or with just a nibble of cheese – thanks to the cushioning provided by the delicious fruit."
