“[This] release is terrific already,... The aromas show lovely fruit notes recalling apricot above all, but are nutty and spicy above all,... These same notes echo on the palate, with mandarin orange joining the apricots (both fresh and dried), and the flavors are very deep and authoritative, but not as heavy as the wine’s density might lead one to believe (that density can likely be ascribed to the 95-year-old vines from which this was made)... Superb for sure, and potentially mind-blowing like the 2010.”
